Why This Job Is Worth Looking At

Remote AI jobs offer real, recurring pay (often $60K+), the ability to work from anywhere, and skills that are in demand across industries. According to creator transcripts, even entry-level tech sales roles in AI/software start at $60–80K, with long-term potential up to $300–500K—just proof you can use AI tools or communicate value to businesses. Unlike freelance gigs, these are real jobs with employers, benefits, and career paths.

▶ MODULE 04

What The Job Actually Does

See the master catalog below for 50+ specific job titles and what they do.

Most remote AI jobs pay at least $60K/year, with many roles in the $80–120K range. Entry-level tech sales (BDR/SDR) jobs in AI/software routinely advertise $60–80K base plus commission. Senior technical roles (ML Engineer, Data Scientist) can reach $150K+.

▶ MODULE 06

Requirements

Requirement	Needed?	Notes
Bachelor's degree	Sometimes	Not required for many entry AI roles (e.g., Tech Sales, Data Annotation, AI Support)
Technical skills	Role-dependent	Coding for ML roles; communication for sales/support
Portfolio or proof of skill	Often	AI prompt samples, sales scripts, or project demos
Certifications	Optional	See next section for details
Remote work setup	Yes	Laptop, reliable Wi-Fi, quiet workspace

▶ MODULE 07

Skills Needed

Skills depend on the role, but common requirements include:

jobhacki.com · @jobhacki

- Familiarity with AI tools (e.g., ChatGPT, Midjourney, GoHighLevel, Jasper)
- Communication and outreach (for sales/support roles)
- Data handling (for annotation, QA, analyst roles)
- Basic coding (for technical roles: Python, SQL, etc.)
- Problem-solving and initiative (proven by side projects or workflow improvements)

Tip: For entry-level remote AI sales, showing you can do cold outreach (50–100 applications/day) and present AI solutions to business owners is more important than a degree (see creator transcript).

▶ MODULE 08

Certifications or Licenses

Certification/License	Required?	Where to Get
None	For most entry AI jobs	N/A
Google Data Analytics Cert	Helpful for data/analyst roles	Coursera
AWS Certified Machine Learning	Helpful for ML Engineer roles	AWS

▶ MODULE 09

Beginner Roadmap

- 1 Pick 2–3 target roles from the catalog below that match your background or interest.
- 2 Research the top 5 companies hiring for those roles (use sites like Remote.co, WeWorkRemotely, FlexJobs, and LinkedIn).
- 3 Build a mini-portfolio: For sales/support, draft 2–3 AI tool demos or outreach messages. For technical, complete a small AI project or prompt sample.
- 4 Update your resume with exact keywords from the job postings (see section below).
- 5 Apply to 10–20 jobs per day using a copy/paste script (see below), tracking responses.
- 6 Join a remote AI job community (e.g., LaptopCEO.com, JobHacki Skool) for feedback and leads.
- 7 Prepare for interviews by practicing your story and how you've used AI tools to solve real problems.

▶ MODULE 10

7-Day Action Plan

- 1 Day 1: Choose 2 AI job titles and collect 10 real job postings for each.
- 2 Day 2: Identify the top 5 skills and keywords from those postings.
- 3 Day 3: Build a simple AI tool demo, prompt, or sales script (1–2 hours).
- 4 Day 4: Update your resume with those keywords and your new project.
- 5 Day 5: Apply to 20 remote jobs using the script below.
- 6 Day 6: Join 2–3 online communities (e.g., LaptopCEO.com, JobHacki Skool, Reddit r/remotework).

- 7 Day 7: Reach out to one person already in your target role for feedback or advice.

▶ MODULE 11

30-Day Action Plan

- 1 Weeks 1–2: Apply to 100+ remote AI jobs (5–10 per day). Track responses in a spreadsheet.
- 2 Week 2: Iterate your resume and outreach script based on feedback and rejections.
- 3 Week 3: Complete a relevant micro-certification (e.g., Google Data Analytics, OpenAI prompt course).
- 4 Week 3: Attend 1–2 virtual events or webinars on AI careers.
- 5 Week 4: Practice interview answers using the talking points below.
- 6 Week 4: Follow up with every company that responded, even if it's a rejection (ask for feedback).
- 7 End of Month: Evaluate which roles got the most traction and double down on those.

▶ MODULE 12

Insider Secrets & Shortcuts

- 1 Niche Down and Pick One Angle: According to the GoHighLevel creator, people who focus on one AI service (e.g., website chat widgets) and one industry get hired faster than those who pitch every AI skill at once.
- 2 Volume Outreach Wins: The creator reports that applying to 50–100 jobs per day (using a script) dramatically increases your odds—most people give up after 10–20 applications.

- 3 Copy/Paste Proven Scripts: Use ready-made outreach scripts and templates from guides like LaptopCEO.com or the free tech sales guide linked in the transcript.

- 4 Show Real-World AI Use: Even if you don't get hired, you can list your AI workflow/project experience on your resume and stand out over degree-only candidates.

- 5 Ask for Feedback on Your Outreach: If your cold DMs or calls aren't working, send your exact message to someone already in the role and ask for advice—then iterate.

- 6 Leverage AI Job Boards: Use niche job boards like Remote.co, WeWorkRemotely, and FlexJobs to find AI-specific remote roles not listed on Indeed or LinkedIn.

▶ MODULE 13

Exact Resume Keywords

Use these keywords (tailored to the job posting):

- AI tools: ChatGPT, Midjourney, Jasper, GoHighLevel, OpenAI, HuggingFace
- Remote collaboration: Slack, Zoom, Asana, Trello
- Sales/support: Outreach, Lead Generation, CRM, Pipeline Management, Customer Success
- Technical: Python, SQL, Data Annotation, Model Training, Prompt Engineering
- Industry: SaaS, HealthTech, FinTech, EdTech, Automation

▶ MODULE 14

Copy/Paste Application Script

▶ MODULE 15

Interview Talking Points

- 1 Describe a real project or workflow where you used an AI tool to solve a problem.
- 2 Explain how you handle remote work (tools, routines, communication).
- 3 Share how you iterate and improve based on feedback (e.g., changed outreach after rejection).
- 4 Mention your ability to learn new AI tools quickly (give a concrete example).
- 5 Highlight any micro-certifications or self-taught skills relevant to the role.

▶ MODULE 16

Red Flags / Scams To Avoid

Red Flags

Beware of any 'AI job' that requires upfront payment for training, asks for your banking info before an offer, or promises 'guaranteed' high income with no work. Real remote AI jobs are posted on reputable boards (Remote.co, WeWorkRemotely, FlexJobs, LinkedIn) and do not require you to buy software or pay for access. If a job sounds too good to be true ($100/hr, no experience, no interview), verify the company and check for reviews on Glassdoor or Reddit.

Source Notes

“You take your outreach strategies and skills that you’ve put together and you start applying to 50 or 100 jobs per day. Now you’re making four, five, or $6,000 per month. And on top of that, you are standing out way more than every other candidate that is applying to that job because all they have is some fancy college degree that doesn’t translate to the world.”

WHAT EACH TOOL ACTUALLY DOES

OmniCut

OmniCut watches your entire video the way an elite editor would — every frame, the full transcript, your offer and what you're actually selling — then runs it through the viral frameworks behind our own content. What you get back is a timestamped editing score: your video chopped into 10-second sequences, each with exact vocal cues, audio cues, effect calls and animation directions. Copy a sequence, paste it into Gemini Omni, and generate that cut — then the next, then the next, until the whole edit is done. Runs as a custom GPT inside ChatGPT (you'll need a ChatGPT account), purpose-built for Gemini Omni video editing the day it drops.

JobHacki Resume Builder

Drop in your LinkedIn (or paste your experience) and it rebuilds everything into the exact one-page format we use: tight summary line, education with the details recruiters scan for, metric-driven experience bullets, and the 10-category skills stack that beats ATS keyword filters. Out comes a polished PDF plus a fully editable doc — change any line later without starting over. Single-industry and multi-industry versions included.

JobHacki Readiness Simulator

Paste a real job posting link. The simulator breaks down what that role actually demands — skills, tools, terminology, scenarios — and tests you on it: multiple choice, written answers, even voice roleplay for interviews and sales calls. You get a Readiness Score out of 100 across skill match, tool match, communication and interview readiness, plus the exact study plan to close your gaps — linked straight to the guides, certs and resources that fix them.

Atlas Directory

The full living library: 100+ grounded, step-by-step playbooks across AI businesses, careers, trades, healthcare paths and side income — every one built from people who actually did it, never theory. Our AI researchers monitor hundreds of creators and sources around the clock, so tools, pay data and methods stay current. Search it, filter it, read online or download any guide as a PDF.
