Who This Guide Is For

This guide is for job seekers who want a real, employer-paid remote job—not a side hustle, not a business, not a scam. Whether you're looking for your first remote role, want to switch industries, or need a job you can do from anywhere (including outside the US), you'll find concrete, up-to-date options here.

If you're tired of generic lists and want actual job titles, pay ranges, requirements, and the exact places to apply, this is for you.

Why This Job Is Worth Looking At

Remote jobs are no longer limited to tech or customer support. Companies in healthcare, finance, education, and even government are hiring for fully remote roles—often with pay that beats local jobs.

According to @FellMentKE and other creators, some remote roles now pay $80–$100/hr, and even entry-level tech sales or support jobs can start at $60K+ (source: creator transcripts, X posts).

Remote work lets you skip commutes, live anywhere, and often get paid in USD even if you're abroad. Many jobs don't require a degree or prior experience—just the right skills and approach.

▶ MODULE 04

What The Job Actually Does

Remote jobs span dozens of industries and functions. Some examples:

- Tech Sales (BDR/SDR): Reach out to leads, set appointments, and hand off to account executives—all via Zoom, email, or LinkedIn.
- Medical Coding: Review patient records and assign codes for billing, often with no in-person work required.
- Content Moderation: Review user-generated content for platforms, flagging violations.
- Data Analyst: Analyze data sets, create reports, and present findings—often using tools like Excel or Tableau.
- Customer Support: Handle tickets, chats, or calls from home using platforms like Zendesk or Intercom.

Each role has its own daily tasks, but all can be performed from anywhere with a stable internet connection.

► MODULE 09

Beginner Roadmap

- 1 Pick 2–3 roles from the catalog that match your background or interests.
- 2 Google the alternate job titles for each role (see Master Catalog below) to find more listings.
- 3 Check real job boards: FlexJobs, WeWorkRemotely, Remote.co, and LinkedIn (filter: 'remote').
- 4 Read 5–10 real job descriptions for each role to spot recurring requirements and keywords.
- 5 If a cert is needed (e.g., medical coding), enroll in a reputable online program (AHIMA, AAPC, Google).
- 6 Build a simple portfolio or project if relevant (e.g., data analysis, writing samples).
- 7 Prepare a resume using the exact keywords from job descriptions.

- 8 Apply to at least 10 jobs per week using the script below.

▶ MODULE 10

7-Day Action Plan

- 1 Day 1: Pick your top 2 remote job targets from the Master Catalog.
- 2 Day 2: Research 10+ job postings for each, noting required skills and keywords.
- 3 Day 3: Update your resume with those keywords (see Exact Resume Keywords section).
- 4 Day 4: Create a basic LinkedIn profile or update your current one to highlight remote-readiness.
- 5 Day 5: Register on 3 remote job boards: FlexJobs, WeWorkRemotely, Remote.co.
- 6 Day 6: Apply to at least 5 jobs using the Copy/Paste Application Script.
- 7 Day 7: Reach out to 2 people working in your target role on LinkedIn for a 10-min chat.

▶ MODULE 11

30-Day Action Plan

- 1 Weeks 1–2: Apply to 5–10 jobs per week in your chosen roles.
- 2 Week 2: Complete a relevant online course or certification if required (e.g., Google Data Analytics, AAPC coding).
- 3 Week 2–3: Build a small project or portfolio (e.g., code sample, writing sample, sales pitch video).
- 4 Week 3: Join 2–3 online communities for your target role (e.g., r/RemoteWork, Skool, Facebook groups).

- 5 Week 4: Practice interview answers using the Interview Talking Points below.
- 6 End of Month: Track all applications and follow up with recruiters/hiring managers.

▶ MODULE 12

Insider Secrets & Shortcuts

- 1 Apply to 50–100 jobs in batches, not just a handful. From the GoHighLevel creator: 'You start applying to 50 or 100 jobs per day. Now you're making four, five, or $6,000 per month.' (transcript)
- 2 Use alternate job titles to find hidden listings. Example: 'Remote IT Support' is also posted as 'Help Desk Technician', 'Service Desk Analyst', 'Desktop Support', etc.
- 3 For tech sales, download free guides/templates from creators (see transcript: 'first link in the description') for proven outreach scripts and onboarding tips.
- 4 If you lack experience, highlight any real-world projects or self-taught skills—creators report getting hired in tech sales and programming with no degree, just by showing initiative and results.
- 5 Ask for feedback if you're not getting interviews. From the GoHighLevel transcript: 'They simply ask someone who's done it... This is the message I've sent. Can you give me some advice?'
- 6 Track your applications and follow up after 5–7 days. Many remote jobs get hundreds of applicants; a polite follow-up can bump you to the top.

▶ MODULE 13

Exact Resume Keywords

Use these keywords (adapt to your target role):

- 'Remote', 'Distributed team', 'Self-motivated', 'Time management', 'Asynchronous communication', 'Zoom', 'Slack', 'CRM', 'Zendesk', 'Salesforce', 'HIPAA-compliant', 'Data analysis', 'SQL', 'Customer success', 'Technical support', 'Medical coding', 'AHIMA', 'AAPC', 'Lead generation', 'Appointment setting', 'Content moderation', 'Incident response', 'Process improvement'

▶ MODULE 14

Copy/Paste Application Script

▶ MODULE 15

Interview Talking Points

- 1 Describe your remote work setup and how you stay productive (mention specific tools: Slack, Asana, Zoom).

- 2 Give an example of solving a problem or learning a new skill independently.

- 3 Explain how you communicate and collaborate asynchronously.

- 4 Share a time you handled a difficult customer or technical issue remotely.

- 5 Highlight any experience with distributed teams or cross-timezone collaboration.

▶ MODULE 16

Red Flags / Scams To Avoid

Warning

Never pay for access to a job or for training unless it's a well-known cert (e.g., AAPC, Google). Avoid jobs that ask for upfront fees, ask you to cash checks, or require you to buy equipment from them. If the pay seems too high for the work or there's no interview, it's likely a scam. Always verify the company's website and check for real employee reviews on Glassdoor or LinkedIn.

► MODULE 17

Source Notes

"You start applying to 50 or 100 jobs per day. Now you're making four, five, or $6,000 per month. And on top of that, you are standing out way more than every other candidate that is applying to that job because all they have is some fancy college degree that doesn't translate to the world."

WHAT EACH TOOL ACTUALLY DOES

OmniCut

OmniCut watches your entire video the way an elite editor would — every frame, the full transcript, your offer and what you're actually selling — then runs it through the viral frameworks behind our own content. What you get back is a timestamped editing score: your video chopped into 10-second sequences, each with exact vocal cues, audio cues, effect calls and animation directions. Copy a sequence, paste it into Gemini Omni, and generate that cut — then the next, then the next, until the whole edit is done. Runs as a custom GPT inside ChatGPT (you'll need a ChatGPT account), purpose-built for Gemini Omni video editing the day it drops.

JobHacki Resume Builder

Drop in your LinkedIn (or paste your experience) and it rebuilds everything into the exact one-page format we use: tight summary line, education with the details recruiters scan for, metric-driven experience bullets, and the 10-category skills stack that beats ATS keyword filters. Out comes a polished PDF plus a fully editable doc — change any line later without starting over. Single-industry and multi-industry versions included.

JobHacki Readiness Simulator

Paste a real job posting link. The simulator breaks down what that role actually demands — skills, tools, terminology, scenarios — and tests you on it: multiple choice, written answers, even voice roleplay for interviews and sales calls. You get a Readiness Score out of 100 across skill match, tool match, communication and interview readiness, plus the exact study plan to close your gaps — linked straight to the guides, certs and resources that fix them.

Atlas Directory

The full living library: 100+ grounded, step-by-step playbooks across AI businesses, careers, trades, healthcare paths and side income — every one built from people who actually did it, never theory. Our AI researchers monitor hundreds of creators and sources around the clock, so tools, pay data and methods stay current. Search it, filter it, read online or download any guide as a PDF.
